France

Home to the Tour de France, the City of Lights, fabulous chateaux, and artisan cheeses. Before you head out to the nearest outdoor café or upscale French bistro, take a cheesy photo on your phone of just the two of you with the biggest, goofiest grins you can manage!

During your meal, answer the following questions:

The Arc de Triomphe is in Paris, France. What has been the biggest triumph in your marriage so far?

Displayed in the Louvre, the Mona Lisa is known for her mysterious smile. What are some things about your spouse that make you smile?

The Tour de France follows a marked path through France. What path is your marriage on? Are there any course corrections you need to make now so you will cross the finish line together?

After your meal, pretend you're in the Tour de France and go biking with your spouse! If you don't have a bike, race each other to the car and find an art museum to stroll through. Make sure you tell your wife that she's more beautiful than any painting you've seen. After you're done, go home and practice their national pastime—the French kiss . . . OH YEAH!

The French are known to be one of the most expressive people in the world. They say that they never keep anything within their hearts, they are loud and open when they love someone. Share something in your heart that you have not yet shared with your spouse. Does your marriage have open expression?

Discuss the following French quotes:

“That is love, giving away everything without the slightest desire to get anything in return.” Albert Camus

“Life has taught us that love does not consist in gazing at each other, but in looking outward together in the same direction.” Antoine de Saint-Exupery

“Love is being stupid together.” Paul Valery
